The title also refers to the popular saying "English is the language of science, Marathi is the language of dance" (i.e., Marathi is more suitable to the arts than English). Background Kaththi, an action-drama film, revolves around the story of a female fighter, who fights for the sovereignty of her village, against a foreign invader who wants to implement a policy of "hate in place of love" in that village. The female protagonist, who is a close-knit group of women, fight for the common interests of all the women. The film has garnered critical acclaim and won six National Film Awards and a special award at the 1994 International Film Festival of India. The film also became a major success in Tamil Nadu, as well as in Kerala and Karnataka. The film's theme of d0c515b9f4
