The bottom line: Taking everything into consideration, Aromatherapy and Essential Oils is a useful and reliable program that comes in handy, for both novices and experts, to acquire important information about the helpful attributes of each plant, and learn how to use them to your own advantage. Our long-term goal is to understand the role of a novel superfamily of proteins, named PIN (plant inducible nitrogen transporters). We propose that PIN proteins can act as "amino acid transporters", but can also be "molecular integrators" that play an important role in the integration of various signals in nitrogen signaling during plant development. Recently, we have isolated the first member of the PIN superfamily, PIC1 (plant inducible co-expression), from Arabidopsis. PIC1 is induced by nitrate in roots and in leaves of Arabidopsis. The p
