Free Keylogger Download PC/Windows

Free Keylogger is a simple application that allows you to intercept the keystrokes on your computer's keyboard and display them with a custom-designed interface. You can look at each of the keystrokes as it happens, without having to wait until the application has run as a background process. In this way, you can view the keys typed on any keyboard and on any Windows desktop without having to physically install the application. The address bar is conveniently placed to the right side of the screen for easy access, while the rest of the display screen is reserved for logging keystrokes that have been typed into a text box. When using the application, you can access the Log History and Customize dialog boxes. The Log History box shows all the keystrokes performed by the application or by other programs that have used Free Keylogger in the past, while the Customize box shows the last log entry viewed by the application. It is important to mention that in its free version, Free Keylogger captures keystrokes only from the active window; however, it also allows you to specify the tab that you want to monitor and capture all keystrokes performed on that tab. In addition to capturing all keyboard input that has been typed on the active window, the application also captures keyboard input as it happens on the desktop and network. The captured data that Free Keylogger monitors includes the name of the application, the full command line of the application, the full name of the file being opened, if applicable, a timestamp of when the keystroke has been made, and the URL of the page that the application is currently viewing. Keystrokes can be monitored at various locations: Windows keyboard. Windows desktop. Windows network. There are two ways to set the location that the application monitors the data: The Full Window Location. This option allows you to monitor the keyboard by setting the location of the window that is currently active (the main window or the currently active tab). By default, this option is set to the active window. The Tab Location. In addition to monitoring the keystrokes made by the active window, this option allows you to specify the location of the tab that is currently active. By default, this option is set to Tab 1. With Free Keylogger, the data captured by the application is sent to a text file named keylog.txt on the user's computer. You may safely delete it
