I also post knitting patterns and textiles I've made. I love color and texture! Hope you enjoy your stay. Wednesday, July 27, 2016 Listening to the Moon Here is the first of two projects I have for August (the other is floating around my head right now). The moon is my inspiration. I was searching for a freebie (yay for Google), when I stumbled on a video by Ravelry artist Nora Kaiser. She makes whimsical moon installations. This was a search to see if there was anything similar to her work. I came across this one that was crocheted with wool. Like her work, I wanted something whimsical, colorful and magical (the moon is magical after all). So I decided to give it a try. What emerged was a light blanket full of yarn dyed lunar light. I am quite happy with the outcome. The yarn
