

It is a password viewer for the most common browsers (IE, Firefox, Chrome, Safari, etc.). Install it to recover your passwords for those browsers, or just keep it on your computer so you can access them any time. You will have all your accounts listed with the master password for quick access. You can even keep track of the data you download through PassTool to your computer's cloud account. It is also possible to restore the lost data from a backup on your browser's Internet history. Remember: PassTool supports IE, Firefox, Chrome, Safari and Opera. It does not work for old versions of Internet Explorer and Opera. All the data you save in a backup will be restored when you delete the device. This app does not work on internet explorer 9, it is still supported. Note: This app only reads the data that the browser stores on the computer. If you want to read the data on another computer, you must transfer this data from the other computer using the USB. PassTool's Features:

- Support for more than 60 browsers (IE, Firefox, Chrome, Safari, Opera, etc.).
- Ability to save passwords in the cloud or your computer.
- If the name is already registered, it will show the fields for viewing passwords (Hint: Save and Lock the master password).
- Support for 32-bit and 64-bit operating systems.
- You can choose to backup the data you save as well as restore the lost data from a backup file.
- Reinstall the program on the same computer to recover the data saved on the computer before.

What we like:

- The program has very simple and intuitive user interface
- The data you save for reference is in the form of an HTML page, and it allows you to save them for later use.
- The program features a preview mode
- The program is completely free

What we dislike:

- It does not work with Internet Explorer 9

However, with such a wide range of websites and services, you end up pilling a whole list of account, and that just means a higher chance that you will eventually forget the passwords. If you are already in the situation where you frequently forget passwords, then you should try using PassTool Password Reader. Needing a password reader Most of today's browsers boast a function that allows them to store the accounts and passwords you enter locally, to provide auto-complete services later. The problem is when you need the password from one browser to log in from another browser since you never bothered remembering it anymore in the first place. Recover and read the passwords from all your browsers and locally stored programs With PassTool Password Reader, all you have to do is select the browser you are using from the list of supported ones, and then just wait. The program will proceed to show you the website you're registered to, the login type and, obviously, the password to the account you have on that browser. When you cannot use the program and how to solve this One thing worth mentioning is that the program will no longer show any data if you perform a complete browser cleanup (password history and cookies included). If you are tired of forgetting your credentials over and over, you can always choose to upload all the data read by it to a local cloud storage service, basically creating a list of all your accounts and passwords for quick access. Never forget your passwords ever again PassTool Password Reader is a simple program and using it is something even beginners can do, which is pretty suiting for a program mostly targeted towards those with lots of accounts and passwords to remember.
