PIMP5.3 Description: PIMP (Personal Information Manager for Portable) is a user-friendly personal information manager (PIM) software for the Pocket PC that allows you to organize and manage information on the smartphone or handheld computer. You may create contact lists, appointments, calendar events and notes. You may filter your list, add rules and icons to identify your info.

PIMP5.3 allows you to easily search, sort and edit your information. You may search by one or more criteria, like phone number, address, email, notes or calendar events. The software allows you to easily filter the info you want to see. You may apply filters to a list of contacts, for example, in order to display only contacts with phone number or address. You may also apply filters to a specific column of the contact list, such as for the notes section, if you want to display only the notes created during the last month. The software also allows you to sort contacts by name, age, phone number, notes, addresses, birthdays, appointments and more. Moreover, it includes a full-featured contact search engine.

The software allows you to view details for every contact in the alphabetical and/or hierarchical order. You may also sort contacts in the way you want to see the info. The information includes the phone numbers, emails, street addresses, notes, birthdays, appointments and a link to the personal info section of the site.

The software enables you to edit and apply filters to the contacts. The information you want to edit, like phone number, age, notes or birthdays, is grouped into tabs. You may create your own customized tabs, and then edit the data within these tabs. You may add a new note for every contact, in order to add information that can be easily shared with other people. You may apply filters to search your notes, like for example, on the notes created during the last month. You may also sort your notes based on the date and title. You may also apply filters

Passpack Desktop is a reliable program that offers you the means to generate and secure passwords, usernames and login details. The application allows you to lock the profiles using a powerful AES-256 encryption type, in order to protect them from prying eyes. You may easily copy the password to clipboard, in order to transfer it. Generating profiles for password protection Passpack Desktop allows you to create a series of profiles which include the username, the keyphrase, URL, email address and tags, for a quick search. You may also create notes for each entry. The software allows you to manually create the profiles, but you may also import it from various sources. The software can extract information from CSV files, as well as from XML or passcards created with other keyphrase security software. You may create a filter in order to help the software correctly import the data, by selecting a field separator, a delimiter and the order of the information columns. You may preview the contents of the CSV file and the way in which every row is imported. Security and password generating Passpack Desktop offers you a series of tools specialized in protecting your data against theft or unauthorised usage. The access to the software itself is locked with a “packing key”, meaning a phrase or sequence of characters you need to remember. The software can store several accounts, each with their own passwords. The profiles can be protected with single security, double encryption or maximum level of security. The software uses AES-256 encryption algorithms that enable it to protect every profile you create. Moreover, the powerful searching engines allows you to identify any profile, based on the tags you assigned to it. Pack the password profiles Passpack Desktop allows you to “pack” the selected profiles, meaning to enable their protection against unauthorised users. You may copy the data contained in each field, using the dedicated buttons next to the desired entry. The software also offers a password generating function, which supports using even special characters, such as symbols from
