Capture Screenshots is a nice tool that lets you take screenshots without messing around. Screen captures and screenshots for Windows are done with the Print Screen or Print Screen button. Press it and a dialog pops up, asking whether you want to save the screenshot or print it out. Once you hit OK, the screenshot is saved in one of your folders or the clipboard. If you want to paste it, you can press the CTRL+V combination or open up an image viewer to do so. This has always been a really annoying task, so we present Capture Screenshots, a small tool that helps you do things as simple as that. Like before, you must define a directory where the saved screenshots are going to be located. Once that's done, all the screen captures are listed, with a nice icon and the name. You can do a whole list of tasks. You can copy them to the clipboard, print them or save them in a folder. In order to do that, all you need to do is to press CTRL+Shift+S. What's more, if you right-click the name of the picture, you can open it. Besides that, you can also search for all the screen captures you made in the past. The list pops up, and you can select all the ones you need. Overall, we think that this is a tool that is easy to use. The only problem is that it doesn't support the RTL languages. It is not easy to create a customized copy of Google Chrome. The default version of the browser is very different from the one that actually runs on your computer. If you want to make the browser look like Chrome, you have to build it yourself. As a result, you will have to go through the tedious process of adding the various components that make Chrome different from Google's browser. Google Chrome extensions Chrome extensions are the smallest and most basic add-ons for Chrome. These extensions can change the browsing experience of Chrome as well as the actual code. Google Chrome themes Themes are better than extensions in that they allow you to change the looks of Chrome. They can change the color of the browser, how the tabs are stacked, etc. Themes can also be changed to reflect your personal tastes. Overall, it's easy to customize Chrome to look like Google Chrome. And while this may not be a full clone, it's

I am just having a hard time fully understanding what exactly happens when you delete a table from MySQL. I understand that the data does not get deleted from the server, and that in order to delete data you must first remove it from the table. However, what happens to the data that is in the table before it is deleted? For example, say there is a table named "customers" in a database called "database". What happens if I ran this query: DELETE FROM customers; Does it delete everything in the table? Does it delete everything that existed before it? If I run: DELETE FROM customers; DELETE FROM customers WHERE id = 1; What exactly happens? Does it delete everything in the table, or just the first (id = 1) record? A: DELETE FROM customers; DELETE FROM customers
