Product: DelphicBuild SDK.It could be an interesting week for electric cars in the US as all eyes turn to the calendar and the new season of hard-driving, high-octane classic and custom car racing at Daytona International Speedway. This weekend, the first US round of the Nurburgring 24 will be the focus, with the Toyota 86 series returning after a one-year hiatus, and the main event, the Rolex 24 at Daytona, rounding out the month-long sprint of endurance racing. Toyota has achieved great success in its 86 series, including back-to-back championship titles, and now the company has transformed the race car into a customer-to-customer racing service.
