Build the ultimate arsenal of the Earth Defense Force and get ready to blast bugs out of the sky! EDF: Insect Armageddon is a new chapter in the Earth Defense Force series where player take on the role of a soldier from the elite EDF team as they fight giant insects and other threats. Build a futuristic arsenal and customize your jet with armor and weapons to suit your play style. Blast giant bugs out of the sky with Nitro Charge – firing a massive attack that destroys enemies in its path! Speed boost into a wall and break through armored enemies with the Nitro Mauler – firing energy blasts from your hands, this short-ranged weapon can also fly through the air. Counter attack with the Dual Whip – aiming a pair of snap hooks on either end of the whip, this weapon can grab and pull enemies from afar or pierce through and activate your Nitro Charge. Stop flying enemies in their tracks with the Nitro Charge Crush – after releasing the Nitro Charge, move in and pound the ground around to pulverize enemies. Mark targets and fire your weapons from the air with the Cinerus Link Jump Jet – this weapon is fired by activating the Nitro Charge and then directing it at an enemy. Take on more of the most deadly insects ever in the Insect Warfare expansion – an exclusive bonus pack for EDF: Insect Armageddon. Key Features:

This invention relates generally to control loops for precision servo systems, and more particularly to a digital closed loop control circuit that operates to enhance the performance of a motor driven system. U.S. Pat. No. 4,087,636 to Kimball assigned to the assignee of this invention discloses a control system which monitors the position and speed of a servo motor that in turn drives a machine. The invention measures the mechanical displacement of a sensor in response to an alternating field and measures the speed of the motor through the induced electrical slip signal. The velocity signal is integrated and amplified to provide a feedback signal which drives a pulse
