Adriana Parra .MSU News May 22, 2006 Divers Key to Sinkhole Recovery MSU researcher is on forefront of search for 'black hole' A brilliant idea and a quick stroke of luck have led to a leading researcher at Mississippi State University (MSU) to help find some solutions to a major Mississippi problem: sinkholes. MSU professor of biology Dale Schoellhorn is directly involved in the most significant research in dealing with sinkholes. In November, 2001, a sinkhole opened up directly under his lab at the University's Starkville Research Park. "The sinkhole was at least 20 feet in diameter and the smallest I have ever seen," said Schoellhorn

The directions and timing for the exam are given in the Student's Book for the DELE preparation, on pages 10-11, in the form of a visual timetable, where the Examination is divided into ten Sections, sections being the equivalent of questions. Each section begins with a diagram of the relevant passage or topic to be covered and then consists of a series of exercises. The diagram is accompanied by a theme, so that it is not necessary to know the meaning of the words involved. All of the exercises are given in EL CRONOMETRO C1/ Nivel A1 / PREPARAT
