In FIFA 18, we introduced a physics-based Speed Changer by defining more complex behaviours to change the speed of players. This year, in FIFA 22, we're developing a new Speed Changer that is based on more realistic speed and acceleration. Our goal is to add a more sophisticated system to find new ways to change the speed of players depending on which type of players they are. For our new feature, we will focus on the size, speed, strength, durability and acceleration of players. First, the size and speed of players will be altered by their position. For example, when a player is in a deep midfield role, we will not increase his speed. When a player is a striker, we will increase his speed to increase the speed at which he manages to move the ball. When players are in open spaces, the size of a player will be affected by the environment. On the other hand, when a player is playing in a tight space, he will be more effective. This will be partially due to a player's weight, which will also affect his movement. Players near the ground will be slower than players who are higher off the ground. These changes will be determined by data collected from player positions during gameplay, and this will be applied to new changes in power. In the past, many updates have been made to FIFA in regards to game balance issues that have been addressed with new changes in game mechanics. In the case of speed changes, we will also be making several balance adjustments to existing player abilities. We aim to make balance changes that will make the game more enjoyable and interesting for all of our fans. In FIFA 20, we started working on defending and creativity with the first steps of the new defensive AI. Our objective was to make more intelligent decisions in these key areas. This year, we will continue to improve these two aspects of the game, focusing on both in-game and post-match functionality. We want to continue improving players' decision-making, and we also want to improve the post-match user experience in two ways: by enhancing the post-match functionality of gameplay and by improving the matchmaking service. In FIFA 20, we introduced a new defensive AI system that mimicked the way a real-life coach would react to the positioning of his players. In FIFA 22, we are improving this defensive AI system in three key areas. First, the decision-making ability of the defensive system will be expanded.

Features Key:

- Exciting new first-person camera that brings fans closer to the pitch in more places, more frequently.
- New "Furious Play" and "Gleam Resistance" functions allow users to control the atmosphere and make matches even more unpredictable.
- Improves passing, dribbling, and shooting mechanics to provide an even greater experience, especially on low-end devices.
- "Movement awareness" allows users to play within the natural momentum of their shots, much like a human player would.
- New celebration animations in career mode that match the playstyle of the player and raise cards and players as you play. Ultimate Team (Xbox 360 and Xbox One) – With new ways to earn cards and take full control over your squad, Ultimate Team is brand new for FIFA 22. Using your Ultimate Team, you can streamline the trade-off process by selling unwanted cards and reinvesting your earnings in new ones. Plus, new sets of cards offer more options, including English transfers and rule changes. Your Ultimate Team also influences your Ultimate Team experience, whether you're playing in Career Mode or simply going for glory in a quick online match. FIFA 22 online services – Xbox 360 and Xbox One services are now cloud-based and feature improved matchmaking. Plus, there's more ways to connect with friends, more ways to earn and more ways to play. Xbox Live members can play with up to 30 people at once in online games, and play more like they are offline by playing parties in solo, duo, or 3-on-3 games. Competitive Seasons – In FIFA 22, Seasons return to give you another chance to dominate the competition and take your gaming experience to the next level. Every year, leagues around the world will be torn apart by a flurry of new signings, and you'll be challenged all year long to get your team ready for battle. As the clock counts down, you can jump right into your favorite football league with the all new "top leagues" mode. From divisions, cups, and leagues across multiple countries, you'll be able to catch up on the latest news and excitement in your favorite football league and book your next challenge. FIFA Ultimate Team – The new Ultimate Team is a quick and easy way to improve your team and make the most of this year's Ultimate Team content. Matching the community's creativity and passion, teams will be awarded points based on their deck building achievement. These points
