1. Field of the Invention This invention relates to a photographing optical device and a method for manufacturing the same, and more particularly to a wide-angle zoom lens and a method for manufacturing the same.

2. Description of the Related Art Conventionally, in taking a picture by use of a camera, a photographing lens of zoom lens system for wide-angle photographing has been used. The principle of wide-angle photographing is based on the fact that a field angle of the photographing lens can be made wider, and a depth of field can be made greater by shortening the focal length of the photographing lens, thereby obtaining a picture of a subject with a good image-quality. However, with such a wide-angle photographing lens, an object that is relatively far away moves to a portion near the optical axis, while an object that is relatively close moves to a portion further apart from the optical axis. Consequently, there is a problem that an image of a subject may become out of focus. To avoid this problem, a wide-angle photographing lens is used, where a focal length is made longer in order to ensure that the object that is relatively close remains in focus. In recent years, there has been a tendency that photographing lenses of zoom lens systems are mounted on compact cameras such as digital cameras, in place of silver-film cameras using silver-film. In the digital cameras, a resolution of an image pickup device is improved, and the number of pixels of the image pickup device is also increased.

Such cameras are required to have high-resolution images, and high-performance zoom lens systems are desired. As one of them, wide-angle zoom lenses are often used. In order to ensure the resolution of an image, a shorter focal length is required in this type of zoom lens. On the other hand, in order to ensure a wide field angle of about 40 degrees, a longer focal length is required for the wide-angle zoom lens. In addition, in order to ensure portability of the compact camera, a smaller number of lens elements are desired. Accordingly, miniaturization of a lens system is an important factor in the wide-angle zoom lens. Zoom lens systems that include three, four, or five lens elements are well known.
