What's new in Tennis World Tour - Denis Shapovalov:

3 days ago In Vancouver, Denis Shapovalov took a step in the right direction and notched up a quarterfinal score. It was the Canadian junior tennis superstar's first court appearance since losing to Juan Ignacio Londero at the Shenzhen Open last month. It is his first final appearance of the season and his first tour level match win since starting his season in ITF Futures events in India, Uzbekistan and Turkey. His run in this tournament has been long and hard, he couldn't break through when he was down a break in the Final last week but prevailed. On an interesting note, Denis Shapovalov's doubles partner for the tournament was none other than Juan Ignacio 'Juaninny' Londero, an Argentine and the former World #120, he was the finalist in this year's Shenzhen Open in November. I could not help but get to know a bit more about this draw from a LTA Press Conference which you can find on our Youtube channel here. We spoke to Denis and Juan Ignacio, the topic of this draw being one of great interest. Denis Shapovalov earned himself a half point off his serve early on against Jean but the Canadian kept it close thanks to good volleying to save a break of serve to 5/4 in the first set. It was the first break of serve but a 7-6(3) 7-6(3) victory through points for Denis Shapovalov. After the break Denis Shapovalov made the finals the tournament by beating Thiemo de Bakker, his first ATP level win in almost two years, an extra week of preparation also played a role in his confidence since he had his first match since losing in the quarterfinals of the Australian Open. He also broke four times, the same total as in the rubber match he won which ended tied at 2-2 in the 5th set. It marks a major comeback from the Wimbledon final after being down 2 sets to love. The second set would bring some strong serves and excellent forehands, Denis Shapovalov once again was up 7-5 as Juan Ignacio Londero started to lose focus. Silva Lopes would then produce three chances at winning from a) Thiemo de Bakker which came up short on two of those, b) a volleyed pace passing shot that fell away to the net and c) a rally which ended at 53-stroke shots, though won by Denis Shapoval
