(Estate of Baker, 170 Cal.App.2d at pp. 567-568.) (4b) The examiner's February 2, 1985, determination of disinheritance was based upon a review of decedent's will and property settlement agreement and the questions submitted by respondent. She did not abuse her discretion. Respondent argues that the examiner's decision cannot be the basis for the superior court's invalidation of decedent's will because there was no proceeding under Probate Code section 1055 et seq. when the February 2, 1985, determination was made. Section 1080 provides: "A copy of the order of the court making the determination must be sent by mail to the executor or administrator, or other person having control of the estate, and to the parties interested or their attorneys." Respondent's position is not sustainable. Decedent's will was admitted to probate and proceedings were commenced under Probate Code section 1020 et seq. only to determine heirship. The issues in such a proceeding are based upon state law. (Estate of Walker, supra, 165 Cal.App.2d at pp. 6-7.) Contrary to respondent's argument, the guardian ad litem need not have been a party to the heirship proceedings; he could appear at that stage, and his participation could not be deemed ineffective. *147 (6a) Respondent also asserts that the

The Van Rensselaer gentry was a family of Dutch bankers, merchants, statesmen and patriots of New York. Van Rensselaer learned to speak and write in Latin; was in the house of William the Silent, Prince of Orange, a soldier and statesman of great fame and influence, and who was subsequently executed for treason in 1584; and, being the grandson of Everts, the founder of the family, was named after his estate, also called Van Rensselaer, in the Catskill Mountains. Henry Van Rensselaer, called Henry IV, was born near Albany, N. Y., 1654, and studied at King's College in New York. He was for a number of years in the household of his uncle, Colonel Nicholas Van Rensselaer, and after that of his brother, Col. Philip Van Rensselaer, also a merchant of Albany. In 1670, he founded a company of Dutch settlers, and, in 1672, he was appointed a magistrate and justice of the peace for

Albany County. In 1682, the Dutch West India Company, the oldest and largest commercial company in the world at the time, was formed, and Van Rensselaer was
