If you don't have an FTP set-up for you xbox doing it with.Q: Inverse Function Theorem: If f has the following property, does it also have the inverse function? I am trying to make the following observation. Let $f: \mathbb{R}^n \rightarrow \mathbb{R}^n$ be a differentiable function. Let $f(x_0) = x_0$ and $f(y_0) = y_0$. Suppose that there exist open sets $U, V \subseteq \mathbb{R}^n$ and an $n \times n$ invertible matrix A such that $U \times \{x_0\} \subseteq \mathbb{R}^n$, $\forall V \times \{y_0\} \subseteq \mathbb{R}^n$
$$f \begin{cases} \text{text{open}}, & x \in U, x \neq x_0 \\ y \in V, x \neq y_0 \end{cases}$$ where f is now understood to mean applying the inverse function. We are also allowed to assume f to be differentiable. Can we say that f^{-1} exists on $U \cap V$? If this is not the case, can we say something about the problem of finding f^{-1} in other special cases? A: In general, the inverse function theorem does not guarantee the existence of an inverse function in all of its domain. For example, the set $\{(x,x) \in \mathbb{R}^2 \mid x \in \mathbb{R}\}$ is an open subset of \mathbb{R}^2 but its inverse image under $f(x,y)=(x,y-x)$ is empty. More generally, a function need not have any derivative everywhere. However
