The application was running when i use win forms picture box for showing images on form, but when i use Paragraph to display text, it doesn't appear. I am using this code for description PdfPCell cell = new PdfPCell(new Phrase("This is paragraph", Aspose.Words.Authoring.Fonts.Courier)); cell.VerticalAlignment = Element.ALIGN_TOP; table.AddCell(cell); where, table is a Document. Please help. A: You have to initialize paragraph to Phrase by means of specifying title, font etc. Try this PdfPCell cell = new PdfPCell(new Phrase("This is paragraph", Aspose.Words.Authoring.Fonts.Courier)); cell.VerticalAlignment = Element.ALIGN_TOP; table.AddCell(cell); Q: Why does the Silverlight XAP name still contain the "blue" XAP extension? I am investigating the use of MSBuild's AddAppBundle method with the MSBuild.ExtensionPack.Silverlight project. It would be convenient to call AddAppBundle with a relative name, but AddAppBundle always seems to add the extension ".blue" to the name of the application, so the result is always something like MyApp_1.0.blue-1234.xap. Given that the.xap file is no longer blue, why does the default behavior of AddAppBundle still include it? Is there any way to control this behavior? Note that if I instead use AddAppManifest, AddAppManifest does correctly omit the ".blue"

– Fighting in Complete Darkness In an Nemesis Realms game you're an evil, misunderstood detective out to defeat an evil mastermind by any means necessary... or you have a really metal problem on your hands. That's if you're playing the PC version of the game, anyway. If you're playing the console version of NEMESIS REVELATIONS you're a guy, you're evil, and you have a hell of a time coming, but thankfully you have a lot of help. In the video game version of each realm you are accompanied by the good investigators from Metano Investigations, the NYPD patrolmen that have been assigned to work with you, and the Arbiters, who are sometimes called in to re-tool your murders. The good investigators have been assigned to two grids: Agents of Fox and Agents of Eagle. Each box represents half of New Orleans, with either the 'west side' or the 'east side.' This means that the 'west side' in the Metano game consists of the Mississippi River (above), while on the Metano game the 'east side' consists of the Mississippi (below). The Brooklyn-based 'Fox' box is on the west, while the 'eagle' box is on the east. Sometimes, but less than you might think, the boxes are on opposite sides of a party, rather than opposite sides of the city. Each box has its own Senior Researcher, and even on neutral ground like Vladivostok, that investigator has been assigned to work on the case. The other the four investigators assign agents to the boxes. Each agent has four ranks: ace, rookie, soprano, and tenor. Having multiple agents on an investigation doesn't usually increase the number of arrests, but it can give you room for most of the odd little deductions and smarts that you'll need. Along with the investigators, each realm has half a dozen investigators working for the local and federal law enforcement agencies. These new investigators are mainly extra cops, and have doubled the number of police officers in each box. This makes the odds of success high, since you can now effectively surround the scene of the crime, instead of just patrolling it. Leo Smith If that wasn't enough, you have the aid of a computer, the interactive exploration program, or the demo-tastic Move-It. This program will let you choose your points of entry into a realm; anywhere a human can be, but
