The Schwarzes moved in after their home on the 500 block of Boulevard East burned in a mysterious fire that damaged nearby homes. Built in 1902, the home was completed two years after the twins' birth. Doris Schwarz was unable to say what sparked the blaze, but her husband, John, was certain it was the result of an electrical malfunction. His description of the house that day mirrors the description of the mansion he built decades later. "We weren't far away from the house when the fire started," he recalled in an interview on July 21, 2013. "We went right in
