account - Bank of America Merrill Lynch. Student Impact We are excited to announce that Johnny Simms of the University of Central Florida has been awarded the 2017 Coleman Impact Award! This distinction is presented annually by the Coleman Foundation to one student organization for outstanding service and is earned by student leaders working to effect positive change in their chosen field. This year's award is presented to Columbus Public Schools in partnership with Community Health Collaborative, the University of Central Florida and Community Health Improvement Partnership. The Community Health Collaborative is a consortium of 30 Columbus Public Schools, several community partners, and The University of Central Florida, College of Medicine. Founded in 2006, the Collaborative works to support the health and well-being of children in Columbus and provides resources to schools, students, and parents, to help make healthy lifestyle choices for all. Students and faculty from the University of Central Florida work collaboratively with community partners to provide comprehensive health education, develop research and programs, and address children's health issues. The Community Health Collaborative and Johnny Simms have been working on our new Youth Fitness Program at Columbus High School to engage students in daily physical activity and dietary wellness. Johnny will lead the YFCP program as a Health Education Specialist, working closely with teachers, staff, administrators, and parents to promote fitness and wellness in the school community.
