I have been pulled over before for going a little too fast around the curve of the park. I have not been speeding since but I know they are posted. Each time I've been pulled over I have received a ticket and sometimes a warning. Is there anything I can do to prevent them from pulling me over? We hear a lot of stories like yours, but rarely do officers issue warnings for traffic violations. Keep in mind that it is a very small world of law enforcement. Maybe you know one of the officers. Even if you don't, you can make yourself safer by simply checking on a regular basis for location changes at park entrances. Sometimes it takes just a few minutes to notice a new sign that indicates a checkpoint. If you regularly check and note when the checkpoint has been moved, you can better prepare yourself for going through the checkpoint. You might encounter an officer in the parking lot who is merely checking your papers, but you might see a patrol car pulled off the road and an officer stopping you for an inspection. Avoiding those types of
