So I decided I had nothing to lose and put it on a torrent, which I didn't regret. And you have no such desire. But on this page it is possible to download the latest versions of Daemon Tools for everyone. Once you've created a disk image, the program will "install" it. If you're really that crafty, you can download the free version, but you'll have to tinker with it to get the program properly set up. But you can do it easier, download the program for free and then just run it in "master" mode. After starting the program, you will see a window in which there will be a few fields that we need to fill. We will need to enter: the name and type of drive to be created. We also need to fill in the field "create" and enter: DVD, or whatever you want the disk to be called, e.g. DVD. Next, you need to specify the location of the disk you want to create, in my case, it is a DVD. So there you have it, you and I have created a disk. As we can see, when we run the file, we need to enter the password, and press Enter. Now let's look at the second creation option - using the File menu, where we have a "New" option, here we automatically have a "New Disc" option. Select it and press the "Next" button. Enter the name of the disk you would like it to have and click "Next". Enter the password, and click "Next". Choose the format of the DVD, in my case it is VCD, and click "Next". When we have finished choosing the quality, click "Next". After that, select the folder where our recording will be stored and click "Next". When we are done selecting the folder, click "Next". In the next window, you can enter the title of the movie, as well as the name and surname of the person who will be watching the movie. After entering the name and last name, click "Next". In the next step, you can select the files that will be used in the movie, as well as the time that will be in the movie.
